Strong Carrier Task Forces

stormed Sicilian beaches, and in a little more than a month swept the Axis garrison off that important Mediterranean island.

Meanwhile, in the South Pacific American amphibious forces late in June invaded the central Solomons and within a month had in their possession the Jap airfield on Munda.

Hit Italian Boot

On September 3, the Allies hit the toe of the Italian boot, and six days later stormed the beach at Salerno for the first blow at the European continent. Italy surrendered unconditionally. By this time the mighty American Pacific fleet was "on the prowl" striking blows at Marcus Island, less than a thousand miles from Tokyo (September 1) and later against enemy-held Wake Island and the Marshall and Gilberts.

On November 1 Allied land, sea and air forces cooperated in a mighty invasion blow against Bougainville island, last major stronghold of the Japs in the Solomons.

Highlight of the year, of course, was the American invasion of the Japanese-held Gilbert Islands on November 20.

Although more than one thousand American Marines were killed, their fellow leathernecks stormed the beaches on Betio island in the face of devastating fire and in three days American forces wiped out Jap garrisons totalling more than 6,000.

Such were the 1943 preludes to the Allied promise to crush Germany and Japan.

A year ago the Japanese still were holding desperately to their positions on Guadalcanal, site of America's first major offensive in the Pacific. At the same time, in the Mediterranean theater, American and British forces were trying fiercely to fight their way eastward after the invasion of North Africa.

Second Year Victories

But the second year of war was destined to put the Allies well on the road to victory.

In February of this year all Japanese resistance on Guadalcanal was crushed, and American forces began consolidating and expanding their positions for new moves against Japan.

On May 11, American army troops by-passed the Jap stronghold on Kiska in the Aleutians and wiped out an enemy garrison of 3,000 on Attu Island after a month of fierce fighting.

Three days later on the other side of the world an Axis army of more than 200 surrendered to victorious American and British troops on Cape Bon, North Africa.

During the Spring and Summer months, American, Canadian and British sea and air forces cracked the German U-boat offensive in the Atlantic.

Russia in mid-Summer smashed a German offensive in the Kursk area and followed immediately with a counteroffensive that brought a series of smashing land defeats to the Nazis.

Early in June, Allied forces stormed Sicilian beaches, and in a little more than a month swept the Axis garrison off that important Mediterranean island.

Meanwhile, in the South Pacific American amphibious forces late in June invaded the central Solomons and within a month had in their possession the Jap airfield on Munda.

On September 3, the Allies hit the toe of the Italian boot, and six days later stormed the beach at Salerno for the first blow at the European continent. Italy surrendered unconditionally. By this time the mighty American Pacific fleet was "on the prowl" striking lightning blows at Marcus Island, less than a thousand miles from Tokyo (September 1) and later against enemy-held Wake Island and the Marshall and Gilberts.

FORMS AVAILABLE FOR FARMER INCOME TAX

Forms on which Pickaway county farmers may file data concerning their estimated incomes have been received at the Circleville postoffice and are now available to persons wishing them.

Postmaster Hulse Hays said Tuesday that he has had many inquiries concerning the forms.

December 15 is the deadline for farmers to file their estimates of 1943 incomes with the Federal Bureau of Internal Revenue in Columbus.

MADDUX TRIAL DELAYED
Trial of Fletcher Maddux, Pickaway township, indicted by the grand jury for driving when intoxicated, has been postponed until next Wednesday. Maddux was to have gone on trial Wednesday, but was granted a week's delay. Burl Hill, charged with cutting Major Smith with a knife, is scheduled for trial Friday.

FOUR REMOVED FROM JAIL TO STATE PRISON

Handcuffed and shackled securely to prevent any attempt at gaining freedom, four men sentenced to the Ohio reformatory at Mansfield were taken to the institution Tuesday by Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Deputy Vern Pontius.

Included in the quartet were two attempted jail breakers, Harold Dufore and Charles Roy Boggs. In the break a month ago Kenneth Knece gained seven hours of freedom and Boggs was out only a few minutes before being caught in the alley back of the jail. Dufore was responsible for the break, choking the sheriff when he unlocked the cell block to return him after he had asked to use the telephone. Knece has already been taken to the Ohio penitentiary to begin serving a 10 to 25 year term for armed robbery. He was a fugitive from the London prison farm when he was caught after robbing Charles Aills, Harrison, O., pipeline worker.

Dufore and Boggs admitted automobile thefts. Each was sentenced to serve one to 20 years. Two other convicted auto thieves were taken to Mansfield at the same time. They were Harold Luther Young, Madison county, and Clifford Williamson, Williamson, W. Va., both of whom received the same sentences.

JAPS HARD HIT ON SEA, IN AIR

are showing signs of weakening in several vital categories.

These categories he listed as oil, air, naval and shipping strength, and stressed that "air power is one thing without which the Japanese can not continue the fight."

"Therefore," he explained, "the Allies' one purpose is to cut off the enemy's supply routes."

The American navy, he said, is losing no opportunity to try to draw the main Japanese fleet into a showdown battle, and added that the Jap is no less inclined to fight it out to the death than he was two years ago.

"But the best part of the enemy's original dare-devil dive-bombing and fighter pilots have been killed," he said, "and the present bunch, while good, is below the standard of American pilots."

In reply to International News Service's question whether on this second anniversary of Pearl Harbor the American forces in the Pacific are in a position to consider the possibility of a direct attack on Japan, the officer said:

"I don't think we will land on Japan. We'll beat them by sinking their shipping, as we've been doing."

"We will bust their air force—in other words, we can beat Japan without attacking their main ground forces in Japan."

He pointed out that the American navy is growing and the Jap's navy is declining, with Japan's war production already engaged to full capacity in an effort to replace losses.

"Ground troops are Japan's strongest factor," he declared. "We are by-passing these strongpoints wherever possible and try to hit him where he is weakest. The Japs are definitely in trouble as the battles for air fields are proceeding."

This officer predicted that within ten days the Allies will be able to offer fighter escort to bombers attacking Rabaul.

KENTUCKY YOUTH HELD
Darcy Moore, 17-year-old Jenkins, Ky., youth, was held in city jail Tuesday for investigation after being taken into custody at 2 a. m. The youth could not explain his presence in Circleville streets at that hour.

Diplomats Expecting Early Alteration Of Turkey's Neutrality

There is reason to believe the Turkish foreign minister expressed the desire for some sort of assurances concerning Russia's future intentions in the Balkans, and particularly in the Dardanelles.

If President Roosevelt and Churchill have been able to bring assurances on this point from Stalin to President Inonu, it is thought Turkey may decide to take the plunge and definitely throw its lot with the Allies.

Should Turkey decide to enter the war or grant Great Britain the use of its bases, the decision may be kept secret until major Allied strategy plans unfold in the form of military operations.

The Teheran announcement that one of the final death blows against Germany will come from the "south" has led to the belief that there may be Balkan campaign in the Spring to coincide with the Anglo-American invasion of Western Europe and the simultaneous new full-scale Soviet offensive on the eastern front.

Diplomatic Washington considers it highly probable that such a Balkan campaign would find Turkey finally playing an important, active role in the Allied cause.

Turkey has been allied with Britain since October, 1939, when she signed an agreement to give the British all the aid and assistance in her power in event of war in the Mediterranean area. Britain, until recently, did not insist on Turkey fulfilling this obligation.

The Turks, who possess a defensive rather than an offensive army, were reluctant to expose themselves to the danger of a major attack from the Germans. Now the situation is developing so favorably for the allies that it is believed Turkey can be persuaded to grant Britain the use of her bases.

President Roosevelt conducted the business session, the members voting to send the offering from the Armistice Day service to the American Bible Society to purchase testaments for service men. It was also voted to give the Thanksgiving Eve Union Service offering to Berger hospital.

"The Indescribable Christ" was the subject of a timely and convincing address by the Rev. L. C. Sherburne. Mr. Sherburne, speaking on the text, "Where is He that is Born King of the Jews?" warned his hearers that the church is guilty of cherishing a worldly spirit, and that Jesus is not being manifested sufficiently by a laity too much given to selfishness nad too intent on parade and show.

Following the hymn, "Thou Didst Leave Thy Throne," the Rev. J. E. Huston adjourned the meeting with prayer.

MRS. EVA BELLE KANOKE DIES; RITES THURSDAY

Mrs. Eva Belle Kanode, 73, widow of James Kanode, died Monday at 9 p. m. at her home, 162 West Union street. She was a native of the Kinderhook community, the daughter of the late Thomas and Elizabeth Sheets Glenn.

Mrs. Kanode was a member of Trinity Lutheran church.

She is survived by one son, Loring of Grove City; five grandchildren, one of whom is Mrs. Ruth Merriman with whom she made her home, and one great grandchild.

Funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. George L. Troutman at the Defenbaugh Chapel Thursday at 2 p. m. with burial in Forest cemetery. Friends may call at the chapel after 7 p. m. Tuesday.

Postal officials have urged the office to help during the Christmas rush, all of whom being assigned to assist route carriers.

YOUTH JAILED

Ashley Smith, 17-year-old South Washington street youth, was sent to county jail under a $15 fine Monday by Judge Lemuel B. Weldon in juvenile court on an intoxication charge. The youth was arrested during the week end by city police. Juvenile Officer John Kerns said the youth would not disclose where he obtained the intoxicants he used.

What are you doing about the empty chair?

THIS YEAR, on Christmas, almost everyone is thinking of an empty chair.

Perhaps the one in your house is empty for the first time. Or perhaps this is the second Christmas. Perhaps it will go on being empty always.

It will not be a happy Christmas for many. But it should be a Christmas of hope—hope that you can make stronger.

You know that even though the tide has turned now, and we've begun to win this war—our soldiers cannot come home until it is won. And you know the sooner it is won—the more soldiers will come home.

What are you doing about those empty chairs on Christmas?

There is something you can do—that everyone in America can do this year.

You can buy War Bonds for Christmas presents
—War Bonds for every empty chair in your house
—War Bonds for every person who hopes those chairs will not remain empty too long.

This should be a War Bond Christmas. Isn't that the most important kind of a Christmas for you?

What are you doing about the empty chair?

THIS YEAR, on Christmas, almost everyone is thinking of an empty chair.

Perhaps the one in your house is empty for the first time. Or perhaps this is the second Christmas. Perhaps it will go on being empty always.

It will not be a happy Christmas for many. But it should be a Christmas of hope—hope that you can make stronger.

You know that even though the tide has turned now, and we've begun to win this war—our soldiers cannot come home until it is won. And you know the sooner it is won—the more soldiers will come home.

What are you doing about those empty chairs on Christmas?

There is something you can do—that everyone in America can do this year.

You can buy War Bonds for Christmas presents—War Bonds for every empty chair in your house—War Bonds for every person who hopes those chairs will not remain empty too long.

This should be a War Bond Christmas. Isn't that the most important kind of a Christmas for you?

DISGORING

If the Allied nations accomplish their program, as they will, the enemies of civilization will be involved in the greatest surrender of modern times. It will not be any joke for the Japs and Nazi-Germans, but it will be entertaining and reassuring for the nations they have sought to conquer and enslave.

By action and pledges of the civilized powers, now engaged in restoring international rights and property rights, the Japs will be stripped of all the property stolen since those little supermen set out, half a century ago, to take the world over. They have aimed to operate the globe according to a system combining modern science and medieval savagery. They would rob civilization of the kindness, cooperation and culture that man has been slowly developing through the ages in his upward climb from the brute. They would make material science not the kindly servant of mankind, but the instrument of oppression and exploitation. "Master minds" without human hearts, they would operate this world as if it were captured by oft-imagined "men from Mars," a sort of cross between men and insects in human form.

It will not come to that. Human intelligence, decency and noble aspiration still have power to fight off the savages and carry on the torch of civilization. But it is a close call, and might have set man back for centuries.

ON THE WAY

IT takes all kinds of people, with all kinds of background and outlook, to make an expeditionary force. A correspondent crossing the Atlantic in a troop ship tells of the bewilderment of some who had never traveled and never seen the ocean before. One soldier stood a long, long time looking blankly at the sea, and then asked: "Say, buddy, when is this place going to git wherever it is that it's going to?" The ship and the sea, to him, seemed to be one place of incomprehensible extent, and as strange as the flying continent that Dean Swift described in his Gulliver's Travels.

But that ship, and countless other ships, with reasonable luck, will get where they're going to in due time, and do the job that is there to be done. In the traveling and talking and fighting and seeing strange people and places, millions of Americans will begin to grasp the bigness of this globe and the greatness of its problems. From that may grow a better understanding of the world and its people, and stronger devotion to things that make for peace.

For a while, every day in every way the world was getting worse and worse, but lately there seems to be a slight improvement.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

BY DREW PEARSON

GILLETTE SPURNS PLEA

WASHINGTON—Democratic leaders are trying to keep it quiet, but there was a hot blow-up over the 1944 campaign at a private administration luncheon on the senate side of the Capitol the other day.

The principals were Democratic Chairman Frank Walker, Food Administrator Marvin Jones and Senator Guy Gillette of Iowa, whom the President attempted to purge in 1938.

Gillette showed up late for the luncheon and was promptly challenged by Walker and Jones.

"What's this I hear about you not running for reelection to the senate in 1944?" asked Walker.

"That's right," replied Gillette. "I've announced that I wouldn't run again for the senate, and I intend to stick by it."

"But how about your party?" countered Walker. "We need men of your caliber to hold up the state tickets in 1944. Otherwise, we're going to have a very tough time."

"I've been waiting a long time for someone to say that," replied Gillette. "You gentlemen didn't seem to think that I belonged to the Democratic party in 1938, when Tommy Corcoran and other members of the White House guard were trying to defeat me in the Iowa senatorial primary."

"How about in 1932?" countered Walker.

"Listen, Frank, don't try to kid me about that campaign," responded Gillette. "I admit I rode in on the President's coattails like a lot of others."

"And you still don't agree that you owe something to the party?" shot back Walker.

"Owe something to the party that tried to kick me out of office?" replied Gillette angrily. "I guess not! Far from it, Frank, and you can tell the President, if you want to, that I will not run for reelection as senator from Iowa on the Democratic ticket under any circumstances."

With that, the Iowa anti-New Dealer turned on his heel and walked out. However, one thing Gillette still has to make clear to Capitol Hill observers is whether he will run for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1944, should Roosevelt eschew a fourth-term nomination. Former Democratic National Chairman Jim Farley has suggested that Gillette throw his hat in the ring.

"LOYALIST" VETERANS IN U. S. ARMY

Some time ago, this column revealed the manner in which American youngsters who had fought for the Spanish Loyalists during the civil war of 1936-39 were being kicked around inside the U. S. Army. They were flunked out of officer candidate schools even when they stood near the top of their class, and many were refused combat duty.

Since then, thanks to liberal Assistant Secretary of War Jack McCloy, this situation has changed. Spanish Loyalist veterans have been given a chance to get into combat. They have more than justified their reversal of discrimination. Here is the record of a few of them:

Sergeant Anthony Toney of Gloversville, N. Y., received the Distinguished Flying Cross for air operations in the Pacific; Sergeant Jerry Weinberg of Brooklyn was cited for the DFC for participating in the Ploesti air raid, in which he was forced

Germans Must Soon End Retreat on Eastern Front

Axis Balkans Wavering As Result of Defeats

Special to Central Press

• WASHINGTON—Look for stiffening Nazi resistance on the Russian front. The growing unrest within Germany's satellite states in the Balkans apparently is forcing the Nazi high command to abandon its "disengaging" tactics that have brought the Russian forces close to the pre-war Polish border.

Importance of the German's apparent decision to stand and fight lies in the fact that it was dictated by political rather than military necessity. Growing panic in Rumania and Bulgaria as the Russian juggernaut approaches their borders was evidenced in recent dispatches from Ankara, where tales of the abandonment of border points, and the rushing of German reinforcements to those areas, was relayed to the Allied world.

At this stage Germany cannot risk a revolution in the satellite states, known to be "sick" of the war and seeking a way out. Therefore, Germany has been forced to halt the withdrawal of troops in the face of the Russian advance, and to fight on ground not chosen by military strategy.

Germany's costly stand at Zhitomir in her fleeting recapture of that rail point and the heavy fighting around Richevetsa are two examples of Nazi efforts to fight a political rather than a military war. There will be others.

• THE SO-CALLED "LITTLE STEEL" STABILIZATION formula may not have been the only casualty resulting from the United Mine Workers' successful wage fight.

Informed Washington quarters report that a federal judgeship apparently has come a cropper, too. The candidate for the post was Wayne L. Morse, of Oregon, public member of the War Labor Board.

These circles say that F. D. R. has cooled off on the appointment as the result of Morse's dissenting vote on the approval of the Lewis wage pact. Morse soundly denounced the signing of the agreement while miners were on strike.

It so happens, however, that F. D. R. himself ordered Ickes to negotiate the contract; later gave it his blessing, and said nothing about the fact that it was signed while the men were still out.

• ARMY AND NAVY MEDICAL AUTHORITIES in this war have organized aid so as to guarantee wounded men every possible chance of recovery. The result is that deaths among wounded men have been cut about in half as compared with World War I.

In 1917-18 many a wounded soldier died in No Man's Land in France because he had to wait until night for a litter-bearer to venture out to bring him back. Now the wounded do not have to wait for nightfall for treatment. They carry emergency first aid kits—sulfur tablets and dressings—and they know how to use them. If he is too badly wounded, a pal can help him.

Also, blood plasma is playing an important role in saving lives. The wounded are given treatment in field hospitals and then are flown hundreds of miles to hospitals in safe areas.

• THE THREATENED BREAK-THROUGH on wages is crammed with inflation dynamite, but the administration still has about six weeks in which to figure a way out. Labor will not go all-out for higher pay until the president's cost of living committee makes its report.

True enough, the C. I. O. steel workers, oil workers, automobile workers and aluminum workers have served notice of their demands for increased wages, making good C. I. O. President Philip Murray's threat at the organization's annual convention.

Insiders are betting, however, that if F. D. R. can save the consumer subsidy program from death at the hands of rebellious congress and really do a job holding the cost of living, labor will quietly fold its tent and say no more about pay boosts.

• THE BIG JAP NAVAL BASE at Truk is in for a real shellacking one of these days at the hands of America's now mighty Pacific fleet, but there is a good chance that it may be bypassed so far as an invasion is concerned, at least in the immediate strategy.

Truk's geographical position is such that a landing would be difficult because the atoll is surrounded on all sides by a reef and the only way to get in is through narrow passages which undoubtedly are protected.

"You haven't told Andrea?"
"I think you should tell me what to do."

"Perhaps you will—later," he said as well as you do, but I think it is kinder to prepare her to face whatever she must."

"Andrea is not a weak sister. She has courage. I've always believed there's more to her than we realize. We can count on her."

Dennis turned the car around and pointed it toward Pennsylvania Avenue. "I have a request to make of you Beth. Will you go up and get Andrea? I want to take her away somewhere and talk to her. After that, I want her to talk to you. I want to share the responsibility of her with you . . . No, don't say it. I know I haven't that right, but—"

Beth smiled at him. "Yes, Dennis. You are her friend, and mine, and I thank you for it, but I don't think you need to worry about Andrea's confiding in me. We're as close as any two girls can be."

Dennis said nothing more, and soon they drew up before the rooming house and Beth got out and went up to fetch Andrea.

Andrea turned at her step on the stairs and went to the door.

There were traces of tears on Andrea's face, but Beth saw that she was elated, and pulled her into the room, with her own heart beating fast.

"I know it's going to be all right now, Beth. Dennis is going to the War Department in the morning and find out what he can. After that, he's going to put in calls to Honolulu to Capt. Ingoldsby and Tom Underwood. Both of them He feels the way I do."

"How?"

"That, since Jim's only reported missing, it might mean that he hasn't reported after an engagement, something like that. He . . . Dennis wants to see you tomorrow."

"Good. I feel better about it now that Dennis is taking hold." Beth said with false heartiness. She doubted if Dennis felt as optimistic as her mercurial Andrea said he did. And Dennis' wanting to see her the next day was nothing to make her feel any better at that moment.

Every time the telephone on her desk rang the next day she picked it up with mingled feelings. Its ring could be the harbinger of both good and bad news. But the calls were not for her.

When she went out of the building at half-past four and saw Dennis at the wheel of his roadster where he had been on a happier occasion she knew the worst.

Without preliminary, she said, "I am not ill," Andrea said between her teeth. "I have never felt better in all my life. Where did I leave my hat and coat?"

"I'll get them for you. They're upstairs."

Andrea brushed by her. "I'll get them myself. I won't be treated as an invalid."

"I'd like to treat you like the brat you are. Just once!" Beth said to herself.

She went down to receive Dennis a moment later.

"Beth, you are in trouble?" he asked at once and, when she said that it was Andrea who wanted to see her, Dennis' hand closed over hers for a moment and gave it a firm pressure.

Extra Food Rations Not Needed For III

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

AN OLD doctor friend of mine who thought he had retired and went to California in 1936 has been called back into active service, and is acting, without pay, of course, as medical adviser to his local food rationing board. He has grapefruit juice, apple juice, grape juice. (This is just nonsense. None of these things are good for any "thyroid condition".)

For "chronic arthritis"—1 gallon of pineapple juice a week—again nonsense.

For colitis —per week 1 can peaches, 1 can pears, 2 cans fruit cocktail, 4 cans condensed soup—the peaches and the pears are positively bad for colitis.

Unpatriotic Practice

But it is allergy that caps the climax," writes my friend. "If one were to take seriously the claims of the patients as to what they couldn't eat, one would despair of the survival of the human race. Here again it would seem that only a diet of canned fruit juices would keep them alive. And the doctors sign the certificates!"

My own household has lived on rationing since it began and I can say that any person with any kind of food allergy can get what he or she needs on the ordinary ration points.

The situation reminds me of the old days of prohibition when a doctor would sign a prescription for whiskey for anybody at $3 a head. How many invalids really need whiskey? Plenty of people like it, but nobody needs it.

It is all unfair and unpatriotic. One can understand the request of a diabetic for more meat, but most of the requests are for canned fruits and fruit juices. Why should a diabetic need fruit juice?

There were 47 requests for more meat for diabetics and 4 for hyperinsulinism (which is just the opposite of diabetes). True, extra meat is good for hyperinsulinism, but it is a very rare disease.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

COMING up the stairs, Beth could see Andrea standing in the doorway of her room. Her figure was drawn up in an attitude of waiting, and when Beth said, "He was in. He'll be here in half an hour," Andrea's figure swayed for a moment and had she not put out her hands and steadied herself on the door frame, she would have fallen.

"Did you tell him anything?" she asked. The color had come into her face, her eyes were like bright coal.

"Not tonight. I told him on the telephone about Jim. I didn't have to explain anything to him after I said we wanted to see him. What are you doing?"

Andrea had gone to the closet to get out the clothes Beth had taken from her the night before. Beth saw that she was elated, and pulled her into the room, with her own heart beating fast.

"I know it's going to be all right now, Beth. Dennis is going to the War Department in the morning and find out what he can. After that, he's going to put in calls to Honolulu to Capt. Ingoldsby and Tom Underwood. Both of them. He's going to pull wires. He can telephone to Capt. Ingoldsby or Tom Underwood. They were in the same company with Jim."

"You don't have to dress, Andy. Put on my housecoat. Under that coat, I have a request to make of you. Beth, will you go up and get Andrea? I want to take her away somewhere and talk to her. After that, I want her to talk to me. I want to share the responsibility of her with you. . . . No, don't say it. I know I haven't that right, but—"

Dennis turned the car around and pointed it toward Pennsylvania avenue. "I have a request to make of you, Beth. Will you go up and get Andrea? I want to take her away somewhere and talk to her. After that, I want her to talk to me. I want to share the responsibility of her with you. . . . No, don't say it. I know I haven't that right, but—"

"Beth, Dennis is waiting for you downstairs," she said, trying to keep her news out of her face. "He wants to talk to you tomorrow."

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Monday Club's music division presented a splendid program of Russian music at the regular session Monday in the club room, Memorial hall. The program was in continuation of the club's year study of "History in the Making" with reference to Russia.

Mrs. James P. Moffitt opened the event with two-solos, "Song of the Shepherd Lehl" by Rimsky-Korsakow, and "Slumber Song" by Gretchaninoff. The next number was an eight-hand, two piano number, "March Slav", by Tschalowsky, presented by Mrs. Ione Reichelderfer, Miss Gretchen Moeller, Mrs. J. W. Adkins and Miss Abbe Mills Clarke. Mrs. Paul Cromley sang "None but the Lonely Heart" by Tschalowsky, followed by the talk of the evening by Mrs. Tom Renick who discussed "Life of Shostokovitch."

She opened her talk by telling that the "Eighth Symphony" by Dmitri Shostokovitch had its world premiere November 4, 1943, when it was played at the Moscow Conservatory by the State Symphony orchestra. It was an extremely gala audience and stirred by the Soviet military successes and the military music in the Symphony, it gave the premiere a genuine Russian ovation. Mrs. Renick mentioned that the Symphony lasts for a full hour and one quarter, and that it is full of martial sounds, nostalgic pastoral phrases and the exciting percussion effects which always entrance Shostokovitch.

Continuing her story, she said that a few days later in New York City, the Columbia Broadcasting System gleefully announced that it had purchased the right to broadcast the first Western Hemisphere performance of the "Eighth." Its reported price was $10,000. Thus Shostokovitch again gained prestige and fame in the United States. This prestige has already been illustrated by the single fact that his "Seventh" or "Leningrad Symphony", despite its cumbersome length, has had more performances in this country than any other piece of contemporary music during the same period.

Mrs. Renick discussed the recordings of his other symphonies by the finest orchestras and reviewed at length the history of his musical production, beginning in 1927 after his graduation from the conservatory through the years until the latest of his works.

She concluded by saying that "no one since Beethoven has had the esthetic sense, the approach to musical material that Shostokovitch has, his language is as rich as the world and his emotion is absolutely universal."

Following her talk, Mrs. Martin Cromley played "Prelude No. 16" and "Fantastic Dance No. 2" by Shostokovitch, the two being characteristic of his modernistic tendencies.

Miss Eleanor Snyder for her numbers chose "Over the Steppe", by Gretchaninoff and "The Three Couriers", by Dargomyshski. Mrs. Theodore L. Huston played two piano numbers, "Peter and the Wolf" by Serge Prokofieff and "In the Fields", Reinhold Giese, two modern composers, and "Russian Dance" by Mussorgsky, who lived from 1839-1881.

The Monday club chorus concluded the outstanding program with three selections, "The Nightingale", and "Yearning", by Tschalowsky and "Page from Homer", Rimsky-Korsakow.

Miss Margaret Rooney, president, was in the chair for the business meeting, opening the session with the Salute to the Flag. The resignations of Mrs. John Dunlap Jr. and Mrs. E. L. Montgomery were received with regret.

It was announced that at the next meeting, December 20, Mrs. Ray Davis would review "The Geography of Maxim Litvinoff" written by Arthur Upham Pope.

Past President's Club

Past President's club of the Daughters of Union Veterans met Monday at the home of Mrs. Irene B. Newton, 468 North Court street, with 10 present for the delightful Christmas party.

Readings were presented by Mrs. E. L. Tolbert, Miss Nellie Palm, Mrs. Charles Stofer and Mrs. Newton.

A two-course lunch was served at the close of the evening, the guests being seated at a table attractively arranged with Christmas decorations and lighted with many tall candles.

The next meeting, January 3, 1949, will be at the home of Mrs. Charles Stofer of West High street. The entertainment will be provided by Mrs. Newton, Mrs. L. E. Miller and Mrs. James Trimble.

NEXT SUMMER and canning season seems a long way off, but remember how hard it was to get cookers for the preservation of that surplus Victory Garden produce last summer? Mr. Kochheimer of the hardware store of that name, announces that he now has a supply of Burpe 7-quart pressure cookers at $15.90. They have the pressure gauge and are made of blue and white enamel. What could be a nicer gift for the home maker.

THE TOP FLIGHT gift in jewelry this year would be a birthstone ring. If you know the birth-date you show your thoughtfulness and your gift is the more appreciative. Massive modern settings for men, neat and beautiful ones for women, $15.50 up, at L. M. Butch Co., jewelers.

IF THAT PERSON for whom you find it difficult to buy a gift, owns a car—The Western Auto Associate store has quite an array of heaters. Small heaters priced as low as $4.98 and larger ones that sell up to $19.95. They are Hot Wave Auto Heaters that are guaranteed to give satisfactory heat at low cost.

SELL POULTRY eggs and cream to Steele's Produce.

JUST RECEIVED, large shipment Roseville pottery. Pettit's.

112 RATS killed with Schutte's Rat Killer. Harpster & Yost.

GOLD FISH and gold fish grass. Walnut St. Greenhouse.

FULL LINE of Christmas cards, 5c and up; gift wrappings; holiday decorations at Gard's.

PEACEFUL looking and sleep in-voking is the little white swan on the head of the old fashioned play crib for the little tots at Harpster and Yost Hardware. It is made of wood and covered with imitation leather in a delf blue with white brad around the edge, simulating heading which gives it that antique look. They have a large assortment of children's toys.

SHERIFF'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

In pursuance of an order of sale from the Common Pleas Court of Pickaway County, Ohio, to me directed in the case of Della Warner vs. Dayton Brooks et al., I will expose to sale, at public auction at the door of the Court House in Circleville, Pickaway County, Ohio, on MONDAY, DEC. 13

1943

At 2:00 o'clock p. m., Ohio time, the following described real estate situated in the County of Pickaway and State of Ohio, and in the Township of Perry, to-wit:

220.58 Acres

TRACT No. 2—Containing 33.38 acres of land, more or less.

TRACT No. 3—Containing 19.00 acres of land, more or less.

TRACT No. 4—Containing 29 acres and 50 poles, more or less.

At the same time and place will be offered for sale 138.85 acres, being the balance of 220.58 acre tract of the farm will be sold by W. G. Dreisbach, Executor of the Will of Phoebe J. Reeves, deceased, under power contained in the will.

It is intended to sell the farm as a whole at the highest bid per acre, which is two-thirds of the appraised value, right reserved to reject bids under $6.00 per acre.

Farm includes complete set of buildings, including large cattle shed, tenant house, water in every field, lots of excellent timber, etc.

TERMS—Five percent cash on day of sale; balance upon confirmation and delivery of deed. Possession on or before March 1, 1944.

HOSTESSES who look forward to informal entertaining this winter will do well to stop into Stone's Grill for a supply of Good Wine—it's a perfect starter for the holiday entertaining. No host or hostess can feel that their dinner party is complete if they have neglected to serve it. We have a complete stock of Champagne, Burgundy, Port, Sherry, Claret, Muscatel and Tokay.

TIME WAS WHEN the most desirable Christmas gift was "hand made."

W. T. Grant Co. has a beautiful array of dainty new prints that would make matching aprons for mother and daughter. Dainty dots, flowers and designs in pastels and also some more practical shades. Tiny tots' dresses are easily made and certainly make acceptable gifts.

SUGAR AND SPICE and everything nice goes into the making of the fruit cakes that are for sale this year at Wallace's Bakery. They are made in one, two and three pound cakes. Daintily wrapped they make delightful gifts. Ingredients for these cakes are now difficult to get for the home maker so leave your order for your cakes early. They are priced at 70¢ per pound.

FIRST PERSON possessive—it may not tend to the best comradeship but if you really need a new chair why not get a Velour tilt back chair and ottoman at $41.50 at the R & R Furniture Co. and make it dad's gift. He'll appreciate it so give it to him.

POULTRY—50 head of good laying hens.

MISCELLANEOUS ARTICLES

One clipper fanning mill; 1 Letz power feed grinder (good); platform scales, 500 lbs. capacity; 3 galvanized water tanks; 1 6 H. P. gasoline engine, in fine condition; 1 corn planter with wire; 1 set of de-horners; 1 brooder house; 2 sets of harness, complete with collars.

HOUSEHOLD GOODS

One reed baby carriage, practically new; side board; antique folding bed; Simmons folding day-bed; 1 good coal range; one 3-burner oil stove; small heater; 2 beds complete with springs and mattresses; wringer bench; tables; stands; dinner bell; lard press; many small tools and other items without space to mention.

County Enters Third Year of War Sobered By Heavy Draft

ARMED SERVICES MAY BE SHORT OF EARLY GOAL

Call For January Double
For New Year

1,800 LOCAL DRAFTEES

Government To Summon
300,000 Men To Colors
Each Month

The United States entered its third year of war Tuesday with the sobering disclosure that draft calls for its armed forces probably will total nearly 300,000 men a month for the entire first quarter of 1944.

The armed services may be from 200,000 to 400,000 men short of their originally planned net strength of 10,800,000 by January 1. The fighting forces of the country totaled approximately ten million men on November 1. Of this number Pickaway county provided about 1,800.

Figures released a week ago nationally showed that selective service call for January alone will be about 290,000 men, or just about double the original estimate for the first month in the new year.

Heavy draft inductions will continue through February and possibly March, according to War Manpower Commission estimates.

Hopes Blasted

Draft calls had been expected to taper off after the first of the year, but calculations were in error because of failure of sufficient women to enlist for service in the varied branches and confusion surrounding drafting of fathers, causing some boards to miss their quotas.

Pickaway county selective service board has not yet been given an official call for January, although estimates in a tentative call indicate the number to be taken will be about the same as for December. The official call will likely be received after this month's contingent leaves late this week.

Originally, military and manpower officials anticipated draft calls of only about 100,000 monthly for the navy in the first six months of 1944, exclusive of 70,000 a month as replacements for casualties and discharged servicemen.

Dr. William Haber, assistant executive director of WMC, declared, however, there is no "substantial relief in the cards" from the current rate of selective service calls "for January and February, certainly."

"I can't speak beyond that period," he said.

Dads Called

Previously, selective service estimated that approximately 450,000 fathers would have to be called to bring the armed forces to peak strength and a representative of that agency said that he saw no reason to alter that figure.

The draft developments were disclosed in a "reappraisal" of the nation's manpower requirements by the WMC. The armed services need one million, 300 thousand persons from November 1 this year to July 1, 1944, to reach their planned net strength of eleven million, 300 thousand, WMC said.

WMC Chairman Paul V. McNutt estimated the country will need a total labor force, including the armed forces of 66,300,000 men by next July 1. The figure is 40,000 higher than estimates of last June because civilian activities have not been curtailed to the extent anticipated.

Another 900,000 must be employed in munitions industries by mid-1944. Employment in direct war production was estimated at nine million, 800 thousand on November 1, against requirements of 10 million, 700 thousand by July 1. Nevertheless, the latter figure is 900,000 below estimates made last summer.

One reason for the decline in requirements for munitions employment is the fact that WMC original estimates were based on a production schedule totaling eighty-two billion, 400 million dollars for 1944. Now, however, WPA estimates next year will not exceed seventy-six billion, 700 million dollars.

Parents Buy and Build Up Farm As Future Gift To Little Son

Billy Thompson, eight-year-old Washington township youngster, will have a farm of his own when he grows up, if plans of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thompson, do not go awry.

Everything the boy's parents do in the operation of their farm, according to Cornell Copeland, administrator for the Farm Security Administration in Pickaway county, is planned so their son will have a successful farm when he reaches an age at which he can operate it.

The Thompsons bought the 140 acre grain and stock farm early this year with funds advanced by the Farm Security Administration. To them, it is Billy's farm. They are trying to build it up to peak production for the boy, and are repaying their indebtedness ahead of schedule so the lad will not have a debt against his farm when he takes over.

The Thompsons were selected for farm ownership by the Pickaway County Tenant Purchase Committee because of their successful record as tenant farmers. Mr. Thompson was a tenant for ten years on one Pickaway county farm, and his landlord reported that he was a model farmer, treating the land as if it were his own and always showing a nice profit. Thompson has carried these same methods over to his new farm. The land is mostly rolling, and already he has started a soil conservation program to "save Billy's farm until he is ready to operate it." During his first year as a farm owner, Thompson has planted grass waterways and begun contour planting of his grain crops. He plans to further improve the farm by tilling and by some terracing where needed. He makes a point of showing any visitors the deep gully which has started on one edge of the farm and explaining how he will stop its further erosion.

The production during Thompson's first year as a farm owner is a good indication of what small farmers can do when given the opportunity. He is milking twelve cows this year, and has five heifers and 12 other calves for future increases. He plans to build up his dairy herd to the maximum of the feed he can grow on his farm, then start a dairy improvement program which will keep the best of his young heifers for replacements each year. The 12 milk cows this year have already produced 4,500 gallons of milk for market over the needs of the family.

Thompson's five brood sows produced 77 pigs in 1943, from nine litters. Forty-two Spring pigs have already gone to market, and there are 35 Fall pigs fattening for Spring markets. The 125 laying hens averaged 10 dozen eggs apiece this year for market in addition to family usage. When the war rationing of building material ends and it is possible to replace the present poultry house with a modern structure, Mrs. Thompson says she will further increase her laying flock. Right now she is spending most of her time culling out and breeding up her present flock so it will produce more eggs per hen in 1944.

A. E. HERRNSTEIN SPEAKS BEFORE KIWANIS MEET

A highly informative and interesting talk on Russia, Great Britain and other Allies of Uncle Sam was enjoyed Monday evening at the Kiwanis club when members of Rotary, Junior Chamber of Commerce and Chamber of Commerce and some women guests joined in an outstanding meeting.

Announced by Renick Dunlap, program committee chairman, as an "off the record" address, the talk made by A. E. Herrnstein, Chillicothe, was an outstanding one. Much information concerning the Allies was provided the capacity audience.

The address followed a turkey dinner. The meeting was at Hanley's.

JOHN S. HOOVER TAKES POST IN VFW DISTRICT

John Sherman Hoover, former Ashville justice of the peace, has been named department deputy chief of staff assigned to district 3 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Mr. Hoover will supervise chapters in Pickaway and Franklin county, numbering six.

Appointment of Hoover, who is now living in Grove City and is a member of the Eesley-Zimmer post No. 3821, was announced by Russell D. Gessner, department commander, and George A. Kistner, department adjutant.

One of Mr. Hoover's jobs is organization and installation of new posts in the two counties.

OPA TO TIGHTEN CONTROL ON GAS FOR SOLD CARS

Office of Price Administration will put a plan into operation January 1, for more effective control over the return of gasoline rations issued to car owners selling their automobiles.

The estimated turnover in ownership each month averages approximately 200,000 vehicles. Better control will mean a substantial saving in gasoline that otherwise might fall into unlawful uses.

The plan calls for close cooperation between the state motor vehicle departments and the War Price and Rationing Boards. The plan will work out as follows:

1. When selling a motor vehicle, an owner must take his remaining mileage ration coupons to his War Price and Rationing Board.

2. In exchange for the coupons the board will issue a receipt in duplicate.

3. Both copies of the receipt and the tire inspection record must be given to the new owner of the vehicle.

4. The new owner will give the original copy to the motor vehicle registrar when applying for new registration certificate.

5. He will present the duplicate copy and the tire inspection record to his board when applying for a new gasoline ration for the car.

Any person who is holding a motor vehicle for sale or resale must submit to his board on January 1, 1944, or not later than January 11, an inventory as of the close of business on December 31, 1943, of all automobiles, trucks, buses and motorcycles which are held by him. The inventory is to be made on OPA Form R-578.

Upon submission of this inventory, your board will issue a gasoline surrender receipt in duplicate, OPA Form R-569, for each passenger automobile, truck, bus and motorcycle listed.

Beginning January 1, 1944, no board can issue gasoline coupons for a vehicle that has changed ownership after the close of business December 31, 1943 unless the applicant submits the duplicate receipt issued by the War Price and Rationing Board.

During his first year as a farm owner, Thompson has planted grass waterways and begun contour planting of his grain crops. He plans to further improve the farm by tilling and by some terracing where needed. He makes a point of showing any visitors the deep gully which has started on one edge of the farm and explaining how he will stop its further erosion.

The production during Thompson's first year as a farm owner is a good indication of what small farmers can do when given the opportunity. He is milking twelve cows this year, and has five heifers and 12 other calves for future increases. He plans to build up his dairy herd to the maximum of the feed he can grow on his farm, then start a dairy improvement program which will keep the best of his young heifers for replacements each year. The 12 milk cows this year have already produced 4,500 gallons of milk for market over the needs of the family.

Thompson's five brood sows produced 77 pigs in 1943, from nine litters. Forty-two Spring pigs have already gone to market, and there are 35 Fall pigs fattening for Spring markets. The 125 laying hens averaged 10 dozen eggs apiece this year for market in addition to family usage. When the war rationing of building materials ends and it is possible to replace the present poultry house with a modern structure, Mrs. Thompson says she will further increase her laying flock. Right now she is spending most of her time culling out and breeding up her present flock so it will produce more eggs per hen in 1944.

A. E. HERRNSTEIN SPEAKS BEFORE KIWANIS MEET

A highly informative and interesting talk on Russia, Great Britain and other Allies of Uncle Sam was enjoyed Monday evening at the Kiwanis club when members of Rotary, Junior Chamber of Commerce and Chamber of Commerce and some women guests joined in an outstanding meeting.

Announced by Renick Dunlap, program committee chairman, as an "off the record" address, the talk made by A. E. Herrnstein, Chillicothe, was an outstanding one. Much information concerning the Allies was provided the capacity audience.

The address followed a turkey dinner. The meeting was at Hanley's.

JOHN S. HOOVER TAKES POST IN VFW DISTRICT

John Sherman Hoover, former Ashville justice of the peace, has been named department deputy chief of staff assigned to district 3 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Mr. Hoover will supervise chapters in Pickaway and Franklin county, numbering six.

Appointment of Hoover, who is now living in Grove City and is a member of the Eesley-Zimmerman post No. 3821, was announced by Russell D. Gessner, department commander, and George A. Kistner, department adjutant.

One of Mr. Hoover's jobs is organization and installation of new posts in the two counties.

OPA TO TIGHTEN CONTROL ON GAS FOR SOLD CARS

Office of Price Administration will put a plan into operation January 1, for more effective control over the return of gasoline ratings issued to car owners selling their automobiles.

The estimated turnover in ownership each month averages approximately 200,000 vehicles. Better control will mean a substantial saving in gasoline that otherwise might fall into unlawful uses.

The plan calls for close cooperation between the state motor vehicle departments and the War Price and Rationing Boards. The plan will work out as follows:

1. When selling a motor vehicle, an owner must take his remaining mileage ration coupons to his War Price and Rationing Board.

2. In exchange for the coupons the board will issue a receipt in duplicate.

3. Both copies of the receipt and the tire inspection record must be given to the new owner of the vehicle.

4. The new owner will give the original copy to the motor vehicle registrar when applying for new registration certificate.

5. He will present the duplicate copy and the tire inspection record to his board when applying for a new gasoline ration for the car.

During the dinner, there was the usual round of toasts—about twenty in all—lasting until 2 a.m. When it came to the toast of Major General John R. Deane, Secretary Hull's chief adviser on military matters, he raised his glass and said:

"I drink to the day when the British, American and Russian armies meet in the streets of Berlin."

Pandemonium broke loose. Everyone cheered. But the Russians cheered loudest.

During the hubbub, Stalin suddenly left his place at the head of the table, walked thirty feet to where General Deane was standing, and clinked his glass.

It was the toast which Stalin seemed to enjoy most.

"T. R.'s" GRANDSON

At the close of the Atlantic City Ellet Conference, the head of an important foreign delegation remarked: "This is the first international conference in which the American delegation was hard to get along with."

Normally, U. S. delegates, especially when hosts of a conference, make themselves readily available to foreign delegates, especially to chief delegates.

This particular chief delegate of a powerful Latin American ally called the hotel room of U. S. Delegate Dean Acheson, got young Kermit Roosevelt on the phone.

Roosevelt, grandson of "T. R.", is an assistant in the State Department.

"I would like an appointment to see Mr. Acheson," said the delegate.

"What do you want to see him about?" asked Roosevelt.

"I felt like saying," commented the Latin American delegate, "I want to see him about the weather."

The tragedy was the second at the base in 10 days, a Fortress falling to the ground just north of the base last Saturday, November 20.

STALIN DRINKS TO VICTORY

At the grand finale Moscow dinner which Josef Stalin gave for Cordell Hull and Anthony Eden, a significant event took place. Those present interpreted it as meaning that Stalin would stick to his word.

During the dinner, there was the usual round of toasts—about twenty in all—lasting until 2 a.m. When it came to the toast of Major General John R. Deane, Secretary Hull's chief adviser on military matters, he raised his glass and said:

Investigators Study Unusual Circumstances In Lockbourne Blast

Investigation continued Tuesday in the explosion which wrecked a Flying Fortress and killed four Lockbourne Army air base flyers. The tragedy happened at 8:30 a.m. Monday at the base as the B-17 was being warmed up preparatory to taking the air on a routine flight.

The board of inquiry was told that the plane exploded on the runway under "very unusual circumstances." There was no further elaboration on this statement.

Victims of the explosion were Captain John R. King, 26, of Tr
